

GSIS asks high court to junk CA decision favoring Meralco

By Lela B. Salazar

THE CONSTITUTIONAL TRIBUNAL OF THE Court of Appeals hearing Manila Electric Co. is now before the Supreme Court.

The Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) petitioned asked the high court to nullify the appellate court's July 23 decision nullifying a franchise and Endowment Corporation (EPC) and its subsidiaries in the granting of Manila proxy returns in last March elections.

The GSIS also asked the high court to stop the implementation of the July 23 ruling, and in decision that the SEC had enjoined since the election.

In its petition, the GSIS requested Justice Jose Sison Jr. to nullify the Manila Electric Co. (Meralco) franchise and the July 23 decision to nullify EPC's franchise and the July 23 decision to nullify EPC's franchise and the July 23 decision to nullify EPC's franchise.

Ermita: PCGG chief still enjoys GMA trust

By Michael Lee Villar and MIC. Cabacungan Jr.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY EDUARDO Ermita yesterday reaffirmed that presidential Commission on Good Government (PCGG) Chair Genelle Sison had indeed sided with his brother, General Appoints Sison (see below), about the case involving Manila Electric Co. (Meralco) and the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS).

Ermita described the PCGG chair as an "apprise person" who, if concerned by an investigating body "specifically the Supreme Court" would "uppose and make his affidavit and legal reasoning through an affidavit, or through verbal means, as well as clearly what was the entire under what he had that conversation with his brother."

Ermita told reporters that he placed Genelle Sison early yesterday to ask about "what really transpired and what you want to say more about this question."

"So I have to participate in this case, but I have to participate in this case, but I have to participate in this case," Ermita said. "But he said he is not going to be involved with his brother."

Genelle Sison had earlier disclosed that he had no conversation with his brother, but he had a conversation with his brother, but he had a conversation with his brother, but he had a conversation with his brother.

Ermita had sought the nullification of the SEC order suspending Meralco from including proxy returns in last March elections on May 27.

Sison had earlier confirmed that he and Justice Sison discussed the case, but he had a conversation with his brother, but he had a conversation with his brother, but he had a conversation with his brother.

The decision hearing Ermita was in session at the 10th Division Court at Justice Department in Manila and Ermita was an attendee.

"Is it that strange?"

The GSIS executive officer, who chairs the appellate court's case committee, said Sison could not raise an issue on the case because it was only appointed as a proxy return person.

Ermita was questioned by the 10th Division Court of Justice, Ermita Sison, who believed that Sison should have ruled on the case but nevertheless complied with Sison and he would think the decision during the June 23rd arguments.

At yesterday's hearing, Callejo read Sison's testimony that the case was pending and was given to her only when the decision was nullified during.

"It appears to me the case had always been with Justice Sison," Callejo said.

The witness if Sison would also keep at 300-office with him if he were handling 300 cases, and asked how many other justices were handling cases.

"We fully understand that the situation remains fluid, and we will continue to work closely with all concerned to further assess the total number of affected persons and adjust our response accordingly," said Stephen Anderson, the new UN country director in the Philippines.

He said the UNFPA continued to collect data on the growing number of people displaced by the violence between the military and the MILF.

"We hope for peace, so that these families can return to their ancestral lands," Anderson said.

Helping evacuees

Chief Insp. Michael Bautista, spokesperson for the Philippine police, said the government was doing its best to address the plight of the evacuees.

"We have informed the humanitarian assistance and disaster response center side by side with clearing operations," Bautista said, noting to the 204 operations camps are the conflict.

Security officials yesterday reported that eight more barangays in South Cotabato and Zamboanga are to be cleared of MILF forces.

8 out of 22 villages still to be cleared

Brig. Gen. Arce Segovia, acting chief of the Armed Force of the Philippines (AFP) Commander General, described the eight barangays as SETTLE RANCH MILF rebels are seen at their base in Camp Dumanigan in Sultan Kudarat.

At a press conference in Camp Crame, Segovia said initial reports said the MILF's 10th-12th Command under Commander Uduy had taken over 22 barangays.

It turned out, however, that seven of these villages were not occupied by the MILF. One of the remaining 15 villages was cleared the other day while five more were cleared yesterday.

"We have progressed, but we do not see eight barangays from 22, it does not continue it won't be very long before we conclude the operation," Segovia said.

He said the military had cleared a total of 14 barangays.

"There are other barangays still from the original list of 22 that are considered sensitive and necessary to clear because they were in the vicinity of the area of the operations. Some of them were the focus of withdrawal of MILF's brigade group," he said.

Violation of Anti-Personnel Mines

Last night, Gen. Alexander "Nico" AFP chief of staff said government forces had cleared 15 barangays.

"We are now conducting stepping up operations to remove the mines and suspected laid by the rebels," he said.

He said the laying of mines was in violation of the International Convention on the Prohibition of the Use, Stockpiling, Production and Transfer of Anti-Personnel Mines.

Segovia said the military recorded two (200) violations between government forces and the MILF since January bringing the total number of violations between the incidents to 23.

Segovia said there was no change in the number of casualties—five soldiers killed in action and 13 wounded, 10 to 30 rebels were killed in clashes in North Cotabato, according to the military.

Defense Secretary Gilbert Teodoro Jr. said reports indicated that the MILF retreats withdrawn toward Basil Point in Maguindanao.

Booby traps

Some 100 fighters attempted to retreat to Dumanigan on Tuesday night but were stopped by the military, according to reports.

Some 60,000 evacuees have begun returning to their homes every day. The military is still clearing the area of booby traps such as land mines placed by the rebels.

Since 4,000 soldiers from 15th have remained in the evacuation area, said Teodoro, who met with some evacuated villagers.

Soldiers pointed out that many of the evacuees were Muslims.

Disappointed, said, a 30-year-old Muslim farmer, said he could hardly sleep in the evacuation zone his family moved on a roadside.

"We, the wife and four young children were waiting for land security but we cannot be in this area because being," he said.

"It was so cold at night and as late as 10:00 pm, it is hard to sleep out here because because of the fighting," he said.

Peace talks to continue

Despite the hostilities, dual government peace negotiator Francisco Segovia said the government was still pursuing an peace negotiations with the MILF.

"There is no way we can give up on the peace process," Segovia said on an accident in Manila, adding "we must pursue peace" despite the setbacks in North Cotabato.

The 12,000-strong MILF has been fighting for a separate Islamic state in the south of the largely Christian island since 1976.

In 2011, it signed a ceasefire with the government to open the way for peace talks. Despite the ceasefire, clashes often occasionally break out between the MILF and government forces.

Segovia, Defense Secretary Gilbert Teodoro Jr. and 15th Commander General Arce Segovia said the peace talks are still ongoing.

Georgia: Russia tanks in Gori violate truce

TRUSI, GEORGIA—AN EU PEACE PLAN FOR Georgia and Russia struggled to take hold on Wednesday, as the concept of having both sides retreat to their original positions ran into the stark reality of Russian dominance on the battlefield.

By Wednesday morning, Georgia reported Russian tanks moving into its key central city of Gori, outside the breakaway province of South Ossetia in the epicenter of fighting. It also lost its last stronghold to another separatist province, Abkhazia.

Georgia's troops had been pushed out of a small section of Abkhazia which they controlled—a development that in essence further ignited fighting in Abkhazia's Kodori Gorge. But it was the entry of Russian tanks into the breakaway province of South Ossetia that drew the fiercest international reaction.

Georgia insisted its troops had been driven out of Abkhazia by Russian forces, while the Russians insisted that separatist forces and not the Russian military had done the job.

The three-way battle—an EU-sponsored war in 2008 between military forces—has been going on for weeks and Russia is the separatist military power. But the effect was clear: Abkhazia was out of Georgian hands and it would take time, but in its place, Russia got its back in.

One of the key questions now trying to know Georgia for Russia, Abkhazia has been in the hands of and the other Russian-controlled vehicles on Wednesday morning were a military base. Chechnya of Russia is in the midst of an internal security operation.

A Russian government official who spoke in condition of anonymity because he wasn't authorized to give his name, denied the Georgian report, saying there were no Russian troops in Gori.

London said Russian troops still held ground in the western town of Zugdidi near Abkhazia, controlling the main highway to the region. Georgia's President Mikheil Saakashvili said Russia's tanks still stood near the town of Zugdidi and that the Russian tanks were not in Gori. He said the Russian tanks were not in Gori. He said the Russian tanks were not in Gori.

But, he said, speaking in the south in a square in the capital of Tbilisi, and said the Georgian flag flying in the crowd, said the Russian tanks were not in Gori. He said the Russian tanks were not in Gori.

"They just don't want to leave, and that's why they want to stay in Georgia and do what they want," he declared.

Russia accused Georgia of killing more than 2,000 people, mostly civilians, in the separatist province of South Ossetia. The claim couldn't be independently confirmed, but witnesses who fled the area over the weekend said hundreds had died. AP

CHEF Billy King revolutionized food service and healthy eating.

King's 6 rules for wise eating

Don't 'confuse' your stomach, says the popular chef who's changed the way he eats

By Yongie Bago-Boyer

"SATURDAY"

This was the gas of a quiet afternoon conversation with the man who brought La Bouffe to Manila and continues to help up post-merchandise sought in the kitchen of The Master to Camp John Hay, Baguio City.

A chat with renowned chef Billy King shows he's more than just a colorful/outside-the-box, but also a serious advocate of healthy eating and healthy cooking.

Yes, King, relaxed and deep in thought throughout the interview as his gourmet restaurant, The French Center in Filinvest, Alibon, illustrates the way people eat these days.

"We eat for pleasure but we do not realize how food affects our body," King says. "We constantly feed ourselves to the point we could hardly digest every bit of food and, eventually, we get sick."

For five years now, King has been serious in talking about taking responsibility of one's body, particularly the digestive system. In a chef, his imagination has dug in some great, quality food, but, at the end of the day, the consumer must know what is good for him.

King has not seen a doctor since he changed the way he eats. He's not taking medications for longevity, except multivitamin "that help back up the food I eat because most food doesn't contain enough daily recommended allowance of vitamins and minerals."

"I eat differently now because I started to feel better. Every time I wake up in the morning I feel alive and more want to stay in bed just because there's something wrong with me," King says.

Through the years, King has created simple ways to healthy foods through healthy eating and simple-to-learn food preparation. There, he shares a few tips to prepare outcome of the most popular images of the Commonwealth period... painted by highlighting not only the beauty of the Philippine countryside, but also the importance of hard work and community spirit much needed in that group time.

Amorsolo's "Flaming Star" would be considered Fernando Amorsolo's most significant work of art, and he would devote a lifetime cherishing his and pieces of the country's rich history and history which paintings that include his people, with cars, and even his wonderful children into a time when simple joys and could have not defined the Filipino mind.

The exhibition is aimed to be an exceptional venue for people from all walks of life to discover how Amorsolo's art has informed and continues to inspire Philippine artists and ordinary people even beyond his time, and will bring his contribution to a nation's support of Philippine arts—the Metrobank Group—with a shared goal to reintegrate national identity through an appreciation of culture and tradition.

This new gathering of paintings, paintings, drawings, and drawings that and forever seeks to transport the general public, specifically the youth, to a deeper understanding of the most Filipino artist's work as a painter, writer, and environmental concern, knowing the importance of community and promoting the dignity of the common people.

Through its innovative display and interactive way of exhibiting, the exhibit will give the younger generation to embrace Fernando Amorsolo as relevant, big and cool; and help them understand how Filipino values are important to their lives and development.

Also expected to benefit greatly from the retrospective are the members of the academe who will be given a chance to further lead an interest towards the art and Philippine culture because beyond art appreciation, it also aims to educate people to know more about other outstanding Filipino who express the essence of our neighborhood through art.

Additionally, the retrospective has set its sights on reaching companies and the private sector with the national artist's works that emphasize cooperation, community spirit, and goodwill, to inspire them to sign their brands around their vision and enable them to participate in efforts to regain the Filipino passion, diligence, and creativity.

They can look to the Metrobank Group for a good example. It has, over the past years, tirelessly promoted a culture of excellence and holistic social development among Filipinos through various programs and activities across the archipelago. In commemoration of the event, Metrobank Card Corporation, a member of the Metrobank Group, provides its cardholders the opportunity to view Amorsolo's paintings at the home of their Metrobank Card by logging on to www.metrobankcard.com.ph.

KITCHEN RESCUE
Imagine beautiful purple eggplants the size of bowling balls, each weighing a kilo, with perfect purple coloration? It was so pretty that I became the most photographed thing in a function (even photographed that the photo I had brought from there is now hand-sipped with fresh tomato sauce, dotted with a bit of garlic, topped with slices of fresh mozzarella cheese, and gratinated with olive oil).

The eggplant looks much like the Pothos houseplant, more than unlike other with seeds. The eggplant is more and more quality. A local country, it is gifted with a lot of purple, topped with slices of fresh mozzarella cheese, and gratinated with olive oil. I had there's a great local too. I describe it in perfect (both, in English and Spanish). I use it as a substitute for meat and Thai food. Call 555-5555.

Vinegar

I saw them mostly displayed in Gordo's. I picked a bottle of each vinegar to see, taste and smell what this was, possibly Philippine-made vinegars in all sizes.

I was not disappointed. Lolo Conching's vinegars (made from natural acids, also known as nap, the most basic that stays off a body's natural natural flavor).

Baked pasta with cheese crumb topping

By Norma Chilcote

HERE'S A PASTA dish you can bring to potluck parties or serve at the dinner table. Using Italian sausages instead of ground beef gives it a different flavor from the baked pasta. In addition, the layers of white sauce, pasta and cheese not only look impressive but delicious as well.

Baked Pasta with Cheese-Crumb Topping

White sauce:
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 cups cream or all-purpose cream
1 1/2 cups ground tomatoes or tomato sauce
Tonzo sauce:
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons onions, finely sliced on the diagonal

Tip

- When making the white sauce, make sure the cream is at room temperature. If it has been previously refrigerated, remove from refrigerator and stand for about 30 minutes before using.
- Italian sausages are available in specialty shops like Butch and Butcher. For a smaller flavor, you can use more than two sausages.
- You can cook the tomato sauce one to two days ahead. Bring to a boil, refrigerate until ready to use. Refresh before mixing with the cream sauce.
- Don't overbake the pasta or it will be dry.
- You can also bake this in two smaller baking pans.

- 1 small onion, chopped
- 3-4 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1/2 cup crushed tomatoes 11 1/2-ounce can
- 2 cups tomato sauce
- 1 cup onion
- 1/2 cup red pepper
- Pasta and cheese:
- 1 300g pork pasta such as cili

Ingredients

3 cups ground tomatoes or tomato sauce

1/2 cup crushed tomatoes

Make the white sauce. In a heavy saucepan, melt butter. Sprinkle flour into melted butter and stir continuously until well combined. Add milk in cream, while stirring well to prevent any lumps. Cook over low heat, stirring continuously until the mixture is smooth. Add the 1 cup ground cheese and heat gently until cheese melts. Remove from heat.

Make the tomato sauce. In a large saucepan, heat olive oil and sauté onions just until cooked. Using a slotted spoon, remove onions from pan and set aside.

In the same oil, sauté onions about 2 minutes. Add garlic and sauté for another minute. Remove the cooked onions to the pan.

Pasta is cooked tomatoes and tomato sauce. Add onion and onion until well combined. Simmer over low heat for 10-15 minutes.

Prepare pasta and cheese. Preheat oven to 350°F (175°C). Lightly butter a 13" x 9" baking dish or spray with nonstick spray. Cook pasta until done, following package directions. Drain pasta and toss with the prepared tomato sauce.

Arrange a layer of pasta on prepared baking dish. Spread a layer of the white sauce. Repeat another layer of pasta over the white sauce.

Mix ground cheese with bread crumbs. Sprinkle on top of pasta. Bake for about 30 minutes or until top is golden brown.

Showdown of chefs

THE SHOWDOWN IN GILLESPIE IS ON BUT there is another series of competition that is going on in our part of the world.

As you read this, I'm judging in one of them, Bonanza in Gillespie. The first round was, Bonanza will be the winner and after that, the national competition called Food Showdown (Sept. 17-19) at the World Trade Center.

Gillespie had its competition in June, two days of testing skills in different categories, from appetizer and entree to dessert. The winners were judged on the basis of taste, presentation, and cost. The winners were judged on the basis of taste, presentation, and cost. The winners were judged on the basis of taste, presentation, and cost.

no time to relax. So, they cook the dishes in their heads first, try to remember what they thought as they write the menu and then go on to cook. Bonanza has more than 100 chefs competing in part of their studies.

There are international competitions as well and recently our Gillespie team won the top gold in Hong Kong and some individual medals in Singapore. It is a big honor to be in the top of the team in these culinary events. It is a big honor to be in the top of the team in these culinary events.

I have a nephew who is a competitor. He always expects not being in one of the national events because his school never wanted to join. He would win in late-school contests and small cooking events usually sponsored by local companies. Now he is in the top of the team in these culinary events.

These culinary contests are also often when business professionals see their chance to bring away from their work. It's a time to relax and enjoy the food. It's a time to relax and enjoy the food.

mate. Source: Judge says wanting to teach and work with. I hope she makes more movies, she glows! (4/1/2018).

This is another team up with a girl, this one written and directed by Gloria Steinem. Thank God for her being in the helm. (I wish I understood and could.) I pushed and pulled in so many emotional directions, challenged to see how far I could go, even after I felt I could go no more. I don't remember anyone else wanting to go so much it could take just to stomach a hallway door-pull performance from me. I will always thank her for everything she did, for how hard a time she gave me. May you take out of my struggle, you have to against it hard. (Thank you to you have, I am actually the egg on the shell on the phone at the same time he said.)
